How the price works

Only a prepaid booking unlocks the discount. A named provider is always dearer than the generic skill. A salon price sits at or above the average of the people attached to it. On a walk-in of LSL 200, which is also R200 because the loti and the rand are at par:

The customer — moreki

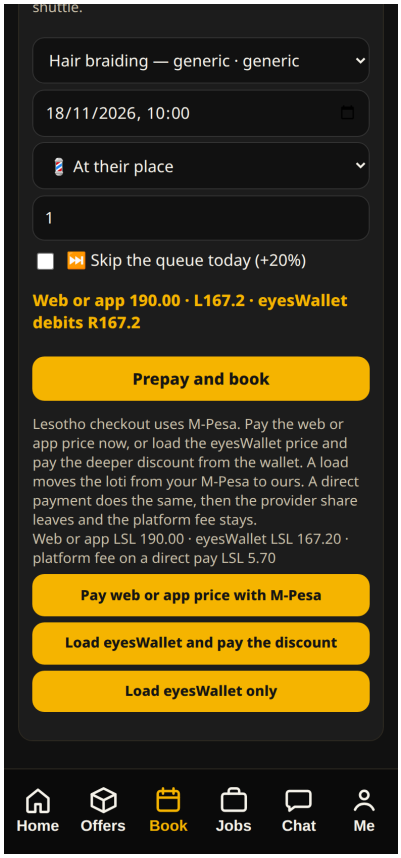

The customer chooses a service or a product, a time, and a place. The screen shows the web or app price and the lower eyesWallet price. Tomorrow on the LSL 200 braid: web or app LSL 190.00, eyesWallet LSL 167.20. The debit is R167.20. The ledger stays in rand.

The service provider — mofani oa litšebeletso

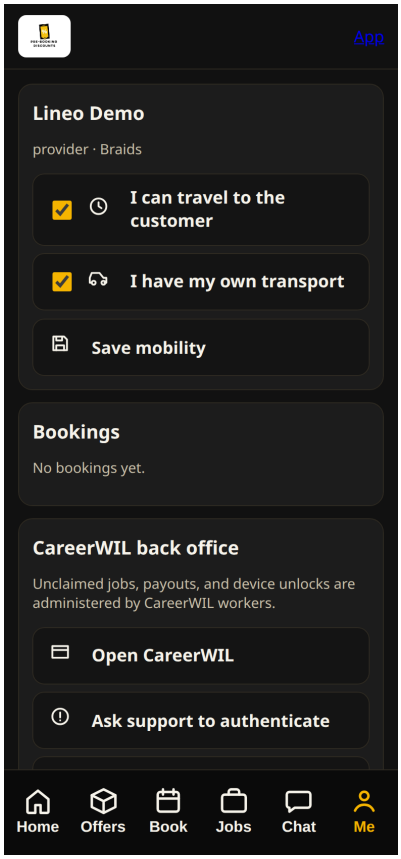

A generic prepaid job goes to the claim pool. The first provider whose calendar is free claims it. A named booking goes straight to that person. The provider says whether they can travel, and whether they have transport.

The product supplier — mofani oa lihlahisoa

A product has a counter price and a lower price when a quantity is prepaid. The supplier names the item, product or service, the selling price, and the cost lines. The discount waits until the prepayment has landed.

Sehlahisoa se na le theko ea khaeleng le theko e tlase ha palo e lefiloe pele. Mofani o reha lebitso, mofuta, theko, le litšenyehelo. Theolelo e eme ho fihlela tefo e fihla.

The shuttle — koloi ea lipalami

A shuttle opens when the customer is at home and the provider does not travel, or when the work is at the provider’s place and the customer has no transport. The driver is paid the shuttle seat, not the whole service.

Koloi ea lipalami e buleha ha moreki a le hae 'me mofani a sa tsamaee, kapa ha mosebetsi o le ho mofani 'me moreki a se na sepalangwa. Mokhanni o lefuoa setulo sa koloi, eseng tšebeletso eohle.

Salon, owner, and CareerWIL

A salon’s public price cannot undercut the average of its people. The owner publishes offers and who may claim. CareerWIL workers run unclaimed jobs, payout questions, and device authentication. CareerWIL is the operations queue. It is not the licence holder.

Theko ea salon e ke ke ea theoha tlas'a karolelano ea batho ba eona. Mong'a khoebo o phatlalatsa likhetho. Basebetsi ba CareerWIL ba tsamaisa mesebetsi e sa nkuoang, litefo, le netefatso ea sesebelisoa. CareerWIL ke leloko la tšebetso. Ha se mong'a laesense.

Why eyesWallet is the value

The lead-time ladder is already a discount. eyesWallet is about 12% further off that lead-time price. Tomorrow’s braid is LSL 190.00 on the web and LSL 167.20 from eyesWallet: LSL 22.80 more off, on top of the LSL 10 saved by booking a day ahead.

One rand ledger serves every country. Lesotho sees maloti. One loti is one rand, with no approximate sign. Namibia and Eswatini use the same peg. Other currencies carry an approximate sign when a rate exists. South Africa sees rand only.

Load once, then pay the deeper price again. The provider of an eyesWallet booking is not paid at the moment of the load. They are paid in a monthly batch, after the 3% has stayed behind. PayFast remains the South African card and EFT rail, in rand.

> Leralla la nako e se e le theolelo. eyesWallet ke hoo e ka bang 12% e eketsehileng. Moriri oa hosane ke LSL 190.00 webong le LSL 167.20 ho tsoa eyesWallet. Bukana e le 'ngoe ea rand e sebeletsa linaha tsohle. Motho oa Lesotho o bona maloti, loti e lekana le rand, ntle le letšoao la ho lekanya. Kenya hanngoe, ebe u lefa theko e tebileng khafetsa. Mofani o lefuoa khoeling, 'me 3% e sala.

How the loti moves

1. The customer's own M-Pesa. They approve a prompt. Bank money and till cash go into that M-Pesa first. This platform does not take cash.

2. Our till. The full web price, or the full discounted load, arrives there. The first "accepted" reply does not credit anyone.

3. After the status check agrees. A load becomes rand at par, once. A direct pay then sends the provider their share. The 3% stays.

Direct pay on the next-day braid: the customer pays LSL 190.00. The fee is LSL 5.70. The provider share is LSL 184.30. A Lesotho merchant code is paid to that till. Without one, the share goes to the phone. The fee is not sent. This path does not also pay a second time in rand. A generic job holds the share until someone is assigned.

Wallet load: LSL 167.20 is credited as R167.20 only after the status check, and the booking is paid from the wallet. The provider is not paid at load time. Once a month the net of eyesWallet-funded Lesotho bookings is paid out, and the provider's rand wallet is debited so they are not paid twice. That monthly run is a desk action. It is not an automatic clock, and it has not been run against live earnings.

> Tefo e otlolohileng ea moriri oa hosane: moreki o lefa LSL 190.00. Tefo ke LSL 5.70. Karolo ea mofani ke LSL 184.30. What a partner can rely on today

Registration opens an eyesWallet membership. Lesotho is marked for M-Pesa and maloti. South Africa is marked for PayFast and rand. Sign-in proves the phone first. Old balances are not rewritten.

These phone screens were taken on the founder stack. The public result address on www.prebookingdiscounts.online does not yet receive Vodacom's message. The status check that turns an accepted prompt into a balance is not switched on. Until both are true, a prompt can be accepted and the balance still does not move. Highlighting a product in the Vodacom portal is not the same as switching it on.

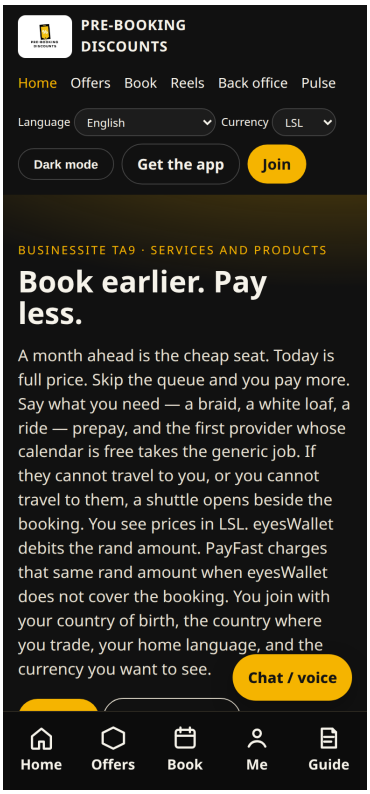

A Lesotho-to-South Africa wallet send waits for a dealer. It does not settle inside the M-Pesa result. A FAIS advice licence does not authorise deposits, e-money, or a cross-border transfer. This guide does not quote an FSP number.

South African company 2026/508532/07 operates the platform. Lesotho form A2023/11960 is a different entity. Directors' personal details are not published here.
